

Several of our recent mathematics graduates are now teaching in middle and high schools. It looks like Roanoke College is taking over the local mathematics community! Given the quality of our recent graduates, this is good news for everybody. Here are some of the many RC mathematics teachers who inspire the next generation:

Geoff Boyer – Craig County
Adam Peters – Franklin County
Blaire Conner – Liberty
Alan Moore – Cave Spring
Lizzie Franz – Cave Spring
Susan Mayorshi Sine – Cave Spring
Matthew Browning – Lord Botetourt
Doug Divers – Roanoke Valley Governor's School
Jennifer Jennings Shannon – Salem
Melissa McCorkle Cook – Andrew Lewis
Kim Thomas Emory – William Fleming
Dana Bowles Dishman – William Byrd
Tracy Jenkins – Glenvar
Lisa Brookshier – Glenvar
Tiffany Shartzter Simmerson – Glenvar
Dawn Hakkenberg – Patrick Henry
Amanda Rogers Hamilton – Hidden Valley
Helen Hancock - Hidden Valley
Danny McNamara – King George
Perry Hardin – Rockbridge County
Anibal Avalos – Dominion
David Myer – Porter Gaud
Julie Critchfield Moore – Fayette County

In addition, we have several graduates who teach college mathematics.

Steve Garren – James Madison University
Katrina Palmer – Appalachian State University
Charles Cooley – Eastern Mennonite University
John Paul Roop – North Carolina A&T
Kim Knorr Sheppard – Cecil College
Steve Wheatley – Montgomery County

